

The Five Hundred Year War

by Jeremy James

Over and over the Word of God warns of idolatry. This is an attempt to obtain supernatural assistance from a source other than God. The sin is grievous in two ways, the first being the rejection of God as the sovereign ruler of all creation. The second is the invocation of a supernatural power by will, word or imagination, often in conjunction with a ritual act.

Since the only supernatural power apart from God is that of the fallen angels, idol worship is a form of magic. The idols themselves do not need to consist of a physical object. As the book of Ezekiel says, men are equally steeped in idolatry when they set up idols in their heart:

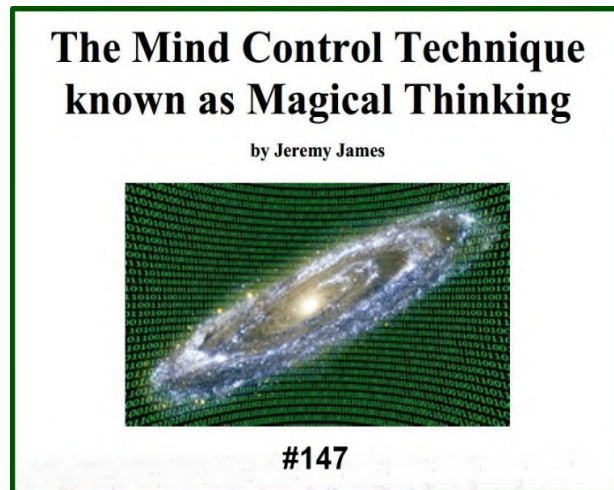

“Son of man, these men have set up their idols in their heart, and put the stumblingblock of their iniquity before their face: should I be enquired of at all by them?” (Ezekiel 14:3)

Magic involves our imagination and the use of mental images, plus a desire that something outside ourselves infuse those images with life. If we look at magic in these terms, we can see how the whole world is absorbed in the worship of idols, or, as it is more usually called, the pursuit of our dreams.

Perhaps the greatest modern popularizer of magic and the ‘follow your dream’ philosophy was Walt Disney, whose television show opened every week with the same idolatrous promise: “When you wish upon a star [a fallen angel], it makes no difference who you are...”

The power of mass mind control

In our earlier paper – The Mind Control Technique known as Magical Thinking (#147) – we saw how a paganized, irrational form of thinking is being heavily promoted across society through the medium of television. For over sixty years countless numbers of impossible worlds and outlandish scenarios have been fashioned and projected into our minds using science fiction, cartoons, fantasy, horror and computer-generated imagery.

Designed to “entertain” us, these images have only a loose connection with the real world. Most of us watch them without ever saying, “This is nonsense.” Rather, the reverse has been happening. Viewers have been trained to think, “Well maybe it’s not possible now, but it could be possible sometime in the future.”

In two later papers (#211 and #289) we explored the four phases of mass insanity. Taken together they attempt to show how Satan has been remoulding the minds of men and their perception of reality in order to lure them further and further from the Word of God. This process has been immensely successful, producing today a generation with virtually no understanding of what God expects of them.

The Reformation brought God's Word to ordinary people

Compare this with the situation five hundred years ago! A spiritual renaissance was taking place across Europe as ordinary men and women gained access to the Bible. As a result of the incredible Reformation begun by Martin Luther, it was now possible to know what God wanted us to know! We could read His Word and see for ourselves!

The Catholic Church had systematically suppressed the Bible for centuries, to the point where it was a punishable offense to read it. Both the Council of Toulouse, 1229, and the Council of Taragona, 1234, forbade anyone to possess a copy of the Bible. Even the clergy were allowed to read only selected portions and these had to be in Latin. No vernacular translations were permitted and it was illegal for a lay person to learn Latin. Anyone who expressed an opinion which might be seen to challenge the authority of the church was taking a great risk. The dark shadow of the Inquisition had hung over Europe for centuries, enabling the ecclesiastical authorities to arrest, imprison, torture and even murder whomever they chose.

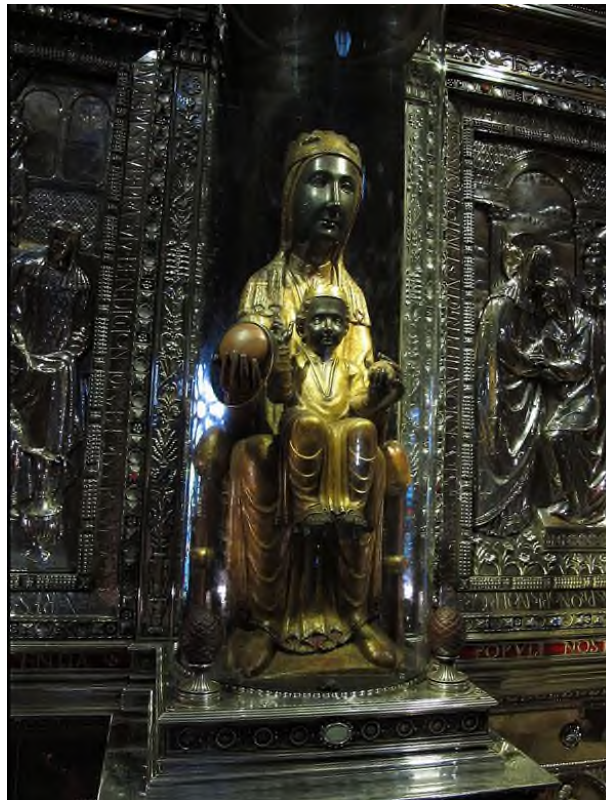

Luther's room at Wartburg Castle, where he translated the New Testament into German.

In 1521, while Luther was returning from the Diet of Worms, his patron, Frederick III (the Elector of Saxony) had him abducted for his own safety and forcibly detained for ten months at Wartburg Castle. While incarcerated at Wartburg he undertook the momentous task of translating the whole of the New Testament from Greek into vernacular German. Later, when he returned from Wartburg to Wittenberg in March, 1522, he collaborated extensively on his draft with Philipp Melancthon, a Greek scholar, to produce a final work which was published in September.

The Jesuit Army

Contrast this period in Luther's life with that of Ignatius (Iñigo) of Loyola, a sworn enemy of the Reformation. In May, 1521, he was seriously injured in a military skirmish and remained bedridden for nearly a year. It was during this period of enforced confinement (1521-1522) that he developed his famous 'Spiritual Exercises'. These were a set of intense meditations over a four week period in which the practitioner generated a series of "imaginary visions" and tried to purge his mind and emotions of everything that stood between himself and God. The goal was to obtain a state of complete inner submission to the divine will which, for all Jesuits, is mediated through his superiors and the head of the Order, the Superior General.

It was during this period that Loyola indulged in ascetic practices and had mystical visions. These included one or more apparitions of the 'Queen of Heaven' in the form of the Virgin of Montserrat.

The Spiritual Exercises of Ignatius Loyola

Loyola was no different from the countless Catholic, Hindu and Islamic mystics who tried to force their way into heaven through prolonged self-discipline, meditation and ascetic practices. Having subjected their bodies to continuous physical strain and deprivation, and weakened both their minds and their emotions through the torment and anguish of oppressive meditative exercises and visualizations, they eventually fell prey to the ecstatic 'mystical' experiences that the Enemy uses to gain control of his victims.

Loyola refined his ‘spiritual exercises’ into a regimen which all of his recruits were expected to follow. As a mind-control device it proved to be extremely effective, turning well-meaning seekers of truth into militant automatons, dedicated heresy-hunters who would carry out any order handed down by their superiors.

This proved to be a critical time in the long-running war between those who loved God’s Word and those who sought to suppress it. Due to circumstances beyond their control, both Luther and Loyola were isolated and confined for most of the year, 1521-22. But the contrast is astonishing. We see Luther working hard to share the good news of the New Testament with his fellow Germans, while Loyola was perfecting a system of mind-control which would enable him to drive a disciplined army of religious fanatics into the very heart of the Reformation.

The goal of this militant order has never changed, namely to completely undo the work of the Reformation. From 1540, when the ‘Society of Jesus’ was formally recognized by the Pope, to the present day, this secretive organization has worked tirelessly to destroy Biblical Christianity and bring the whole world under the temporal and spiritual authority of the Pope.

Far too many professing Christians have forgotten this! They stupidly imagine that Satan is no longer active on the world stage. As a result they fail to see that four great armies are warring against them – Freemasonry, Marxism, Cabalistic Judaism, and the Jesuit Order. (The first two are controlled by the last two.)

All four are well funded, highly trained, and capable of exercising the utmost cunning in order to infiltrate, undermine and destroy their enemies. They are not constrained in any way by moral scruples but will do whatever is necessary to take their plan – Satan's Plan! – to the next stage.

Putting learning against learning

Once the Bible became generally available across Europe and all attempts to suppress its circulation had failed, the Enemy hit on a plan which has characterized much of his strategy ever since. The Jesuits began to put “learning against learning.” They set up educational colleges across Europe and deliberately raised the standard of learning among the masses, particularly among those who would one day enter the professions, the civil service and banking. The curriculum would be decided by the Order and designed as much as possible to lead their unwitting charges toward secular humanism. Scripture would have a place, of course, but it would be pushed so far into the background, and made so depressingly dull, that students would emerge with a detailed knowledge of Plutarch and Ovid, Dante and Cicero, Shakespeare and Moliere, Homer and Thucydides, but only a scant knowledge of the Bible.

This strategy has been followed ever since, where the young are targeted at an early age and inducted into a way of thinking, a world view, which defers without question to science and civil authority and reduces the Bible to little more than a reference book that the Pope uses to embellish his Encyclicals, Bulls and moral pronouncements.

The decision to put “learning against learning” was cleverly intended to fill the most active and enquiring minds with attractive material which would keep their attention firmly fixed on the material world. Just as “entertainment” is used on a massive scale to keep the masses from giving their time and energy to spiritual things, “learning” too became a form of entertainment, where the minds of those who would have the greatest influence on society were filled to capacity with enticing ideas which left no room for God.

The spiritual plague known as ‘entertainment’

If you have ever wondered why industries like cinema and sound recording – whether pop, classical, jazz, country or whatever – have permitted vast quantities of their material to be broadcast free on the Internet, notably on YouTube, the answer is simple. Satan wants to maximize the seductive power of “entertainment,” where even the poorest members of society can easily access unlimited amounts of premium content without charge. Technically these all entail a violation of copyright, but the Luciferians who own these industries must do as their wicked master decrees. The time wasted in this way by society as a whole is astounding, especially with the advent of the smart phone, social media, and universal access to the Internet.

This strategy of ‘unlimited, unrestricted entertainment’ has been remarkably successful. It both wastes our time and directs our attention away from objective, reflective thought. In a sense it makes non-thinking pleasurable. It also channels our emotional vitality into a passive, self-absorbed state which thrives on idleness and produces nothing.

Jesuit mind control

The Jesuits have long known the importance of capturing the individual’s mind while he is still a child. If the programming is begun early, it is much more difficult to eradicate. A child educated in a Jesuit college is subtly bound to the Jesuit Order for his entire life. Some of these alumni are later recruited as adults to serve as agents within the community, the most senior of which have sworn an oath of allegiance to the Superior General. These are known as coadjutors, lay servants of a military order working under cover. They frequently advance into the highest levels of government, business, finance, and the public service.

The most productive among them, especially those of 'noble' birth, are rewarded with membership of the Sovereign Military Order of Malta (SMOM) and bear the title, Knight of Malta. The current membership is 13,500 (Knights, Dames and Chaplains), according to Wikipedia. The Knights actually enjoy diplomatic immunity and travel unimpeded under the international passport issued by the Order. This effectively makes SMOM a state within a state.

Many bemoan the extraordinary control which Cabalistic Judaism appears to exercise over the United States and Europe but fail to see how the Catholic Church has established an extensive 'deep state' network over the same political landscape. The Jewish and Catholic networks are believed to co-operate extensively at a high level in their mutual pursuit of a 'New World Order.'

Many also believe, with good reason, that the Jesuits fomented the long series of vicious pogroms against the Jews in Russia in the mid-to-late 19th century in order to destabilize that country, overthrow the Czar, and install a new regime. The militant Jewish cohort produced by these events went on to commit appalling crimes under the banner of 'Communism', notably the famous Red Terror in which millions of Christians were brutally murdered.

The Grand Cross of Merit Special Class is awarded only to individuals who have made a particularly valuable contribution to the goals of SMOM. Most likely in Reagan's case it was his formal re-establishment of diplomatic relations with the Vatican in 1984. These had been suppressed by Congress in 1867 on foot of continual Jesuit interference in the internal affairs of the United States and their suspected involvement in the assassination of President Lincoln.

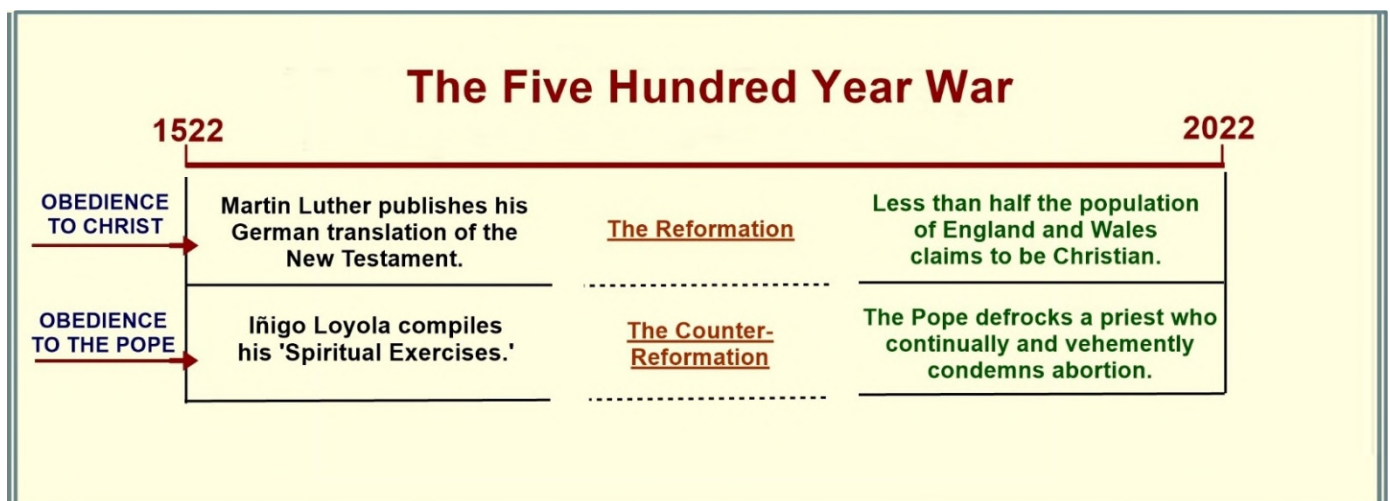

The battle lines were drawn in 1522

It is easier to understand what is happening in the world today if one can see that the Vatican and the worldwide Catholic apparatus is controlled by men who hate Christ. The Society was authorised by the Pope to destroy the fruit of the Reformation, to make it as difficult as possible for ordinary men and women – like you and me – to read God's Word. They have been trained, through a formidable process of mental programming, to endure any hardship or privation in pursuit of this goal. Indeed, the Order boasts that its members are so 'dedicated' (i.e. fanatical) that if their Superior General were to declare tomorrow that black is white, they would believe it.

The battle lines were drawn in 1522 when Luther set out to translate the New Testament into the vernacular and make it available to everyone, while Loyola set out to create an army that would do everything in its power to destroy the New Testament church. That was exactly 500 years ago. One side preached complete obedience to Christ and his Word, while the other demanded of its victims complete obedience to the Pope and his word.

This war has raged ever since. Moreover, it will continue to rage until Jesus Christ of Nazareth returns to the earth in person and destroys the Antichrist.

The first 400 years of the war were conducted in the open, as it were. Bible-believing Christians knew the Jesuits wanted to remove them from the earth. Their leaders, by and large, took care to instil in their respective flocks an awareness of the tricks and wiles that the Enemy was using to uproot them. Around 1900, however, the war entered a new phase, where diligent pastors lost sight of the Enemy and decided – very foolishly – that the threat had abated. Meanwhile Rome adopted a more conciliatory tone and began to ‘reach out’ to what they called their “separated brethren.” Professing Christians, who should have known better, fell for her ecumenical trickery and even began to ask whether the Reformation itself had been a mistake.

The Fallen Angels

The rebellious angels are not sitting patiently on the bleachers, waiting to see what proportion of mankind sides with Satan and what proportion stands with Christ. The Enemy is making full use of all his resources to drag mankind into the pit.

We know he was enraged by Luther's act of translating the New Testament in 1522 because he sent a plague of demons to harass him. Luther had asked the servants at Wartburg castle to provide him with a sack of hazelnuts so he'd have something to eat between meals. One night he was awoken from his sleep by a great commotion. The hazelnuts were jumping out of the sack! "They rose up, and one after another struck hard against the rafters and danced around my bed." Later that night, he said, "there arose on the stairs such a clamour, as though someone was throwing several barrels down the steps." He went to check and found the stairs were securely closed off with iron gates.

Contrast this demonic activity with the role played by demons in the mind of Iñigo Loyola. During his arduous and exacting Spiritual Exercises he began to have visions which he believed came from God. Given the extent to which his teachings departed from the plain truth of God's Word, not to mention the prolonged suffering inflicted on his physical body by ascetic practices, we can say with certainty that his mystical experiences came from the Enemy. Rather than challenge these apparitions in the name of Christ – as per 1 John 4:1-3 – he chose instead to accept them as authentic and even incorporated what he learned into his Spiritual Exercises.

The demons sent to deceive Iñigo had done their job.

The Unicursal Hexagram

The Jesuits are steering the Catholic Church ever closer to a “one world religion”, where everyone on earth will be inducted – “initiated” – into a universal divine path. This is why they have always taught a brand of Christianity which blends local pagan beliefs and customs with ‘Christian’ doctrine. This policy, known as syncretism, enables them to combine beliefs from various sources and make them appear compatible with Christianity. The most obvious example of this is their gross perversion of the Gospel in their own patented religious system known as Liberation Theology, a thinly disguised platform for Marxist propaganda.

The Jesuits use SMOM and its worldwide network of Knights to exercise leverage over governments and international corporations. In this way they are able to shape world affairs without disclosing either their involvement or their intentions. SMOM, as a Jesuit proxy, has had Permanent Observer status at the UN General Assembly since 1994. This means the Jesuits are as close to the “action” as any government or head of state.

To appreciate the austere Babylonian character of this secretive organization we must take a short detour. The dark magus, Aleister Crowley, promoted what is known as the unicursal hexagram. This is a hexagram in which each successive line can be drawn without removing the pen from the page. The regular hexagram represents the ancient occult principle, As Above, So Below. Crowley’s version, seemingly, is intended to suggest a pentagram, another potent magical symbol.

It is described on the Amazon website as “the mysterious Thelema pentagram” – see the bracelet below which is made for Satanists and followers of Thelema. Thelema was the branch of black magick devised by Crowley under the direction of his fallen angel or ‘spirit guide’, Aiwass.

The unicursal hexagram acquires even greater occult significance when it is interlaced with a second one. Here is the only example we could find of an item of jewelry with this symbol:

Notice how closely it approximates to the Maltese Cross:

The Maltese Cross is the best known symbol of the Knights of Malta. It may possibly represent, in a disguised form, an interlaced pair of unicursal hexagrams.

Initially we treated this only as a conjecture until we found a revealing photo of SMOM knights at one of their special gatherings:

Babylonians on parade.

[See Appendix A for an illustration of the way the two unicursal hexagrams are interlaced.]

CONCLUSION

The Reformation sparked a massive response from Rome, a tightly organized military initiative known to historians as the Counter-Reformation. The war and mayhem unleashed by this response was horrific.

This attack on Biblical Christianity – on the right to read and believe God's Word – is still continuing today. This relentless campaign, spanning a period of 500 years, is being driven by the same institution that set it in motion, namely the Jesuit Order.

For the Jesuit leadership, the war will continue until victory is achieved. We need to remember that the anathemas or formal denunciations directed at each and every Bible believer by Jesuit radicals at the Council of Trent (1545-1563) are still current.

Before closing we will look briefly at a monument which was installed in London in 2005 – see photo below:

The 'Siege of Malta' monument, which stands next to the church, All Hallows-by-the-Tower, was unveiled at a ceremony attended by the late Duke of Edinburgh on 15 August, 2005. It honors the lives of those who died during the siege of Malta, 1940-1943. A Masonic monolith, it is 3 meters high and weighs 8½ tons.

Significantly, it is located inside the boundary of the City of London. All symbols and monuments inside the boundary are very carefully chosen. This one is saying that the Sovereign Military Order of Malta is a member of the ruling cabal which controls the (self-governing) City of London and is, therefore, a major player in the program to install a New World Order and clear a path for the Antichrist.

“Beloved, believe not every spirit, but try the spirits whether they are of God: because many false prophets are gone out into the world. Hereby know ye the Spirit of God: Every spirit that confesseth that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh is of God: And every spirit that confesseth not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh is not of God: and this is that spirit of antichrist, whereof ye have heard that it should come; and even now already is it in the world.” – 1 John 4:1-3
